Research Interest/Specialization

Dr. Pratima Singh is working as Assistant Professor in the Department of Resource Management and Design Application from past 13 years. She has done her PhD on “Assessment of Indoor Environmental Quality and Students’ Performance in Private Schools of Delhi” from University of Delhi. Her research areas include Environment and Sustainability, Climate Change, Indoor Environmental Quality, Air Quality Management, Sustainable Waste Management, Green Architecture, and Community Resource Management. She is actively involved with various organizations like University of Delhi, National Council for Educational Research (NCERT), and National School of Open Learning (NIOS) for design and development of course curriculum, various books, study materials and MOOC courses. She has published a number of research papers in national and international journals and has co-authored number of books. She has received number of travel grants and awards from national and international organizations for presenting her research papers in international conferences. She also has expertise of organizing community outreach programs to solve social and economic problems faced by masses.

Prior to joining the University of Delhi, she worked as Lecturer in the Department of Extension Education, NCERT.
