Feedback mechanism at IHE
IQAC
2022-23

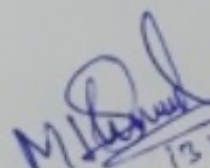

The Institute of Home Economics has established a comprehensive feedback mechanism to facilitate active participation from various stakeholders, including students, faculty, non-teaching staff, parents, alumni, and employers. The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) plays a pivotal role in regularly gathering feedback from these stakeholders to enhance the Institution's academic and administrative performance. This feedback serves as a catalyst for updating teaching-learning processes, organizational structures, and operational methodologies as necessary.

The IQAC has devised feedback forms accessible on the college website to systematically collect data from stakeholders. Subsequently, the feedback data is meticulously compiled, analyzed, and utilized to initiate targeted improvement actions.

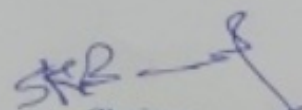

The Governing Body commended the comprehensive approach in collecting feedback from various stakeholders. The IQAC played an instrumental role in considering the received feedback to drive improvements. Recognizing the significance of stakeholder insights, the feedback process served as a catalyst for envisioning new pathways for institutional progress. The institution believes in forging connections and catalysing change across multiple levels within the society.

The Chairperson emphasized the proactive role of the IQAC in fostering a research-oriented culture. Initiatives such as research webinars, seminars, and capacity-building programs aim to augment the teaching-learning process. Additionally, the IQAC's efforts were noted in promoting sustainable practices within the college premises, including the prohibition of single-use plastic, waste segregation, and recycling initiatives.

To foster an inclusive educational environment, the IQAC contributed by installing Braille signages in the college, thus promoting inclusivity in education. Furthermore, the Chairperson appreciated IQAC efforts for nurturing an ethical global citizenship by commemorating national and international events of significance.
